

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 30 –

Chapter 30 Questioning Her Ability

“However, as for my ability goes, you can rest assured that although I am young and don’t look like those famous, senior doctors, I have also studied plenty of complex diseases abroad over the years. My experience might not be as comparable as those old doctors who have worked for decades, but in terms of ability, I have absolute confidence in myself.” With that, she took out a document from the bag she was carrying and handed it to Andrius.”

This is my resume from over the years. Mr. Quirke can take a look at it first, and then decide whether I am qualified to treat Old Master Quirke.”

Andrius did not expect her to have been this prepared. Although he had reprimanded Andrea just now, deep down, he had not actually believed in Rosalie as well.

Yet when the woman was speaking, her demeanor had been quite impressive, and she was well –prepared.

Her confidence was enough to convince anyone even if they did not look at her resume. With an attitude of responsibility toward the old master and curiosity about Rosalie, Andrius reached out his hand, intending to take it and look through it. However, before he could touch the document, he saw a bony hand stretch out from his side suddenly to intercept the document halfway...

Chapter 31

Deliberately Targeted Her Everyone present could not help but be stunned for a bit. Seeing her resume intercepted by that large hand, Rosalie felt even more nervous. She had deliberately been avoiding Byron the moment she saw him. She did not even dare look at him through the periphery of her vision. Now, the man had suddenly reached his hand out and taken away her resume. She had to pay attention to him.

She wondered just what he was thinking... Byron grabbed the resume in his big hand tightly. He glanced over Rosalie’s face and said pointedly, “There are quite a number of people faking resumes to swindle others nowadays. Old Man Quirke’s condition is already bleak, so we can’t be cheated by these people.” With that, he casually flipped open the resume in his hand. His speed of browsing was really slow as if he was trying to distinguish what was real and what was not in the resume. From the school that Rosalie had attended to the place where she worked, his eyes caught every detail. Rosalie’s life over the years also slowly emerged in his mind. Indeed, just as she said, she had a very beautiful life abroad over the years. Every item in her resume was extremely beautiful, brilliant, and turned heads.

Rosalie looked at him with mixed feelings as he checked her resume.

She could only watch as the mockery at the corners of the man's mouth became more and more obvious as his eyes moved.

Rosalie really could not guess just what he was thinking. She clenched her fingers silently and waited for him to speak.

After who knew how long, Byron finally closed the cover of her resume slowly. Almost at the same time, Rosalie's entire person tensed. "It looks... to be true." Byron glanced at Rosalie coldly before suggesting to Andrius, "However, you'd best verify it on the internet to confirm whether this person really exists. These certificates in the resume can be bought, after all."

Saying that, Rosalie finally could hold back no longer.

The few times this man opened his mouth, his words had all been a jab at her, doubting her medical skills!

Rosalie might have been able to endure it, but the research institute was involved. She had to get the opportunity to diagnose and treat Old Master Quirke! Thinking of this, Rosalie looked at Byron with a stern expression and responded coldly,

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-