

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 354

Seeing that Daddy had not spoken, Estie's eyes gradually darkened, she lowered her gaze and stayed quiet for a while. Then, she raised her head and looked at Daddy very obediently. "Daddy, when Estie grow big, can I go and play with Aunt?"

Hearing the little girl's words, he was startled again.

Estie was still a baby. How did she come up with such a long-term plan?

These words must have been said by the woman to comfort the little one.

Therefore, this woman really intended to go abroad. She already had plans laid out and would not contact Estie again after going abroad.

Thinking of this, a trace of irony flashed across his eyes.

If only the woman knew the baby she abandoned six years ago was Estie. Now, she was going to abandon her again. He wondered what the woman would think if she found out.

Estie had already prepared herself mentally and looked at her daddy with a serious face. "Aunt say, when Estie grow up, find Aunt to play. So Estie will get well soon."

This sentence undoubtedly came from the woman. Estie learned to say this from her.

Byron thought of the unusual behavior that Estie exhibited at the dinner table earlier, and his emotions were complicated.

The little girl ate more than ever and even took the initiative to talk to him probably because of what the woman said. Estie wanted to get better soon.

Did that woman know how much influence she had on Estie...

Estie muttered to herself for a while, then lowered her eyes in despair, she said, "How nice if Aunt don't go... Aunt stay..."

Although she could go abroad to visit the beautiful aunt when she grew up, growing up took too long.

She wanted to see Aunt every day.

Byron saw the little girl's depressed look, and his eyes darkened. He promised in a deep voice, "Daddy will find away."

Even though their relationship had become estranged now, that woman was the one he had been looking for six years, she was Estie's one and only biological mother.

This time, since he knew in advance that the woman wanted to leave, he would never let her escape so easily!

Hearing Daddy's promise, Estie raised a little bit of hope in her heart and nodded vigorously.

Meanwhile, at the hospital.

Wendy waited until it was time Byron got off work, but he never showed up. Instead, she got a phone call from her subordinate.

“President Fuller, the kindergarten teacher brought the little lady of the Lawrence Family to visit Rosalie. She stayed at Rosalie’s house until four o’clock in the afternoon. Rosalie personally sent the little lady home.”

Hearing this, Wendy’s expression became fierce like thunder. “What about Byron? Did he show up?”

She endured so much pain that the two of them would not keep in contact.

Furthermore, when Rosalie came to the hospital last time, Wendy tried her best to show that wench her position in Byron’s heart.

If Byron had gone to see that b*tch again today, would she not suffer in vain?

On the other line, her subordinate replied quickly, “ President Lawrence didn’t show up at all. But not long after the little lady came home, President Lawrence also came back with a man. It seemed that the little lady had a problem, and he appeared to be quite worried.”

Wendy breathe a sigh of relief and ordered, “Got it. Keep checking on Rosalie for me.”

After speaking, she hung up the phone.

According to what her subordinates just said, Byron should be with Estie at home now.

Wendy was lying on the hospital bed with complicated thoughts, she was thinking of scheming against Rosalie.

Her bitter tactics reduced the possibility of Byron meeting that btch, but it did not change what the little brat felt for that btch.

If the two of them were allowed to keep in touch, Byron and that wretched b*tch Rosalie would be in touch again sooner or later.

For today’s plan, the only way was to get that b*tch out of Coast City for good!
