

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 360

There were only two of them in the office, so their expressions also became more solemn.

“I’m not sure if you still remember what the Fullers did to us the last time.” Yves raised his eyebrows.

Hearing this, Rosalie frowned slightly and was reminded of the time when she just arrived in her home country and the experience of being targeted by Wendy.

All the medicinal material suppliers in Coast city under the Fullers’ control refused to cooperate with them for no reason.

The new batch of medicinal material suppliers this time had always cooperated well with her, but they abruptly halted their supply without a reason.

There must be someone behind all this.

However, who was it?

Rosalie’s expression froze, and her mind was in chaos.

They resolved the problem Wendy had posed the last time, so she probably would not use the same tactic to go against them.

Yves did not explicitly say it, but he knew that this matter was aimed at Rosalie.

Looking at Rosalie’s face of contemplation, Yves patted her shoulders and placated her. “Don’t overthink this first, since you’re here, I think you should call those cooperating suppliers to confirm their intention. If they’re calling it off, we need to find better ones as soon as we can. Our top priority is still to ensure the progress of every project.”

Rosalie slowly gathered her thoughts and nodded at him.

In an instant, Yves brought in the contact information of all the research institute’s suppliers. Rosalie then called them up one by one.

“So sorry, Dr. Jacobs. It’s been a great partnership with your research institute, but I can’t supply the medicine that you guys need in this short term, so...”

“Yes, Dr. Jacobs? I’m really sorry, but everything happened so fast. I didn’t get the chance to let you know that our pharmaceutical factory is busy with a large order from a hospital. I’m afraid we can’t make it on your side.”

« »

Every person in charge from every supplier was finding all sorts of excuses to reject her.

They simply implied that they were not looking to cooperate with her research institute.

Rosalie held her fist tight, gritted her teeth, and wanted to make another call.

Yves was looking at her anxiousness. He felt bad for her and held her hand back. "Let's stop calling."

Hearing this, Rosalie looked up at him in confusion.

"It's obvious that someone is targeting our research institute. Besides, this party's influence is about the same as the Fullers'. It's even possible that we'll yield the same results if we go against them again."

Although they did not want to admit it, it was the truth, after all.

Rosalie fell silent for a while and put the phone down in frustration.

"Let me take the liberty to ask. Did you offend anyone recently?" Yves could not help but showed some concern.

After he said this, he saw that Rosalie's body froze for a moment.

Yves immediately explained, "I don't mean to blame you. After all, you resolved the issue the last time the research institute was facing a similar problem. I'm just reminding you that since the other party can go to this extent, it may not be impossible for them to get to you or your children. You must be careful. As for the research institute, I can still hold on for a while no matter how bad it gets."

After saying this, Yves smiled at her to console her.

Rosalie's eyes then flashed, she felt moved.

However, she could not wrap her head around why someone would target her like this.

The only possible person was Melody.

However, when they met previously, she had made everything clear that during this period, she did not have any relationship with Byron.

Besides, if Melody was the one behind this, she could have done it immediately after they met up that day. Why would she wait until now?