

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 388

After the explanation ended and the room became quiet, Lucius immediately approached Xander quietly. "Young Master Lancer, when will the free consultation start?"

Xander took a quick look at the time and answered slowly, "Soon. Just wait for a bit. They're doing the preparations outside."

Lucius nodded and stole a strange glance at Rosalie then turned to Xander again. "I assume the workload on our side will be quite heavy today. Do you think we need to request one or two more doctors from the other rooms?"

Hearing this, Rosalie and the rest looked at him in confusion as they did not understand why he would propose such a request.

Xander even asked him directly, "Why do you say so, Dr. Rand? Do you think we won't be able to handle the kids?"

Lucius waved his hand. "We have four doctors here, of course, that's enough, but... I'm just worried that we might miss out on anything during the examinations and mistakes are made."

He hinted at Rosalie as he spoke.

It was obvious that he assumed Rosalie was not qualified enough.

Rosalie noticed his dissatisfaction with her, but she was confused.

'I don't even know this guy, why is he so hostile toward me...'

She was not bothered about the others suspecting her professionalism, but she felt that it was inappropriate to act like this on such an occasion.

Xander looked in the direction where Lucius was hinting and immediately looked back at him, saying with an indifferent tone, "Dr. Rand, are you implying that there's someone among US who isn't qualified enough?"

Lucius smiled without saying a word, a tacit agreement with Xander's statement.

Xander raised his brows and looked at Rosalie.

Although he also had doubts about her skills, he still believed in Old Master Quirke and Quentin. They would not recommend an average doctor to the Lancer family.

However, such a level of trust was still insufficient for him to speak up for her.

Leon frowned after witnessing such a scene. "Dr. Rand, now is the critical moment for the free clinic. Please don't affect the mentality of others here. Regarding whether or not there's someone unqualified among US, you'll naturally witness everything for yourself during the diagnosis and treatment."

A trace of shock flashed through his eyes as Lucius did not expect Leon to speak up for the woman. He then looked at the three of them awkwardly.

Leon's statement spoke for itself.

The expressions of the three darkened.

Xander frowned slightly but did not display his anger for the sake of maintaining his family's image.

Rosalie, on the other hand, could not bear it and walked toward Lucius before saying coldly, "Dr. Rand, I've never met you in person before, but I can totally understand if you have doubts about my skills since you're more experienced than I am. Even so, you're crossing the line by acting like this!"

Lucius did not expect this lady to be so strong-headed and swallowed back whatever he wanted to say before this.

"Regarding the concerns you raised just now, I can also tell you clearly that I won't drag anyone down. If I show even the slightest unprofessionalism, you can raise the issue at any time and I'll withdraw voluntarily. The free clinic is for children, and I won't make light of the matters pertaining to the children's health!" Rosalie stood opposite Lucius with a stern expression.

Lucius' arrogance was reduced by quite a lot, and he sounded more hesitant. "Since you've said so, if anything happens later—"

Leon's gentle voice sounded before Lucius could finish his words. "I'll handle it if a problem occurs. Just mind your own business, Dr. Rand."
