

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 501

"I'm sorry. Mommy is sorry."

Rosalie's gaze lowered, and she apologized to the little boy.

Nox knew he had successfully dismissed Rosalie's suspicions, and he secretly felt relieved.

Seeing his mother apologizing to him, he gradually let down his guard.

"It's not Mommy's fault!" Nox tugged Rosalie's sleeve.

Rosalie forced a smile, but she still felt sorry for her sons deep down inside her.

Nox tilted his head and took the opportunity to tell Rosalie what he thought.

"Mommy, why don't you make Mr. Byron our Daddy if you feel sorry for us? Lucian and I like Mr. Byron very much!"

Rosalie was shocked.

This was the first time she was hearing the little boy tell her what they thought of Mr. Byron.

She wondered, 'Is it because they're related by blood that the little ones like Byron that much?'

For a moment, Rosalie considered telling the little ones the truth.

However, she thought about her relationship with Byron now...

If Byron knew that the two little boys were his kids, he might not let her raise them.

Rosalie clenched her fist and swallowed the words she was about to say.

"Mr. Byron is going to marry someone else eventually. Mommy can't control what he does."

She stroked the little one's head, trying to comfort him. "But Mommy can promise you one thing, though. Your Daddy will be someone you like."

The little boy was upset when his mother rejected him.

However, he could understand it since Mommy and Daddy had not gotten back together.

They must get Daddy and Mommy back together soon!

The little one made up his mind.

Rosalie could not bear to see the little one disappointed, so she held his hands. "Come on. Let's go downstairs to check on Estie."

The little one nodded obediently and followed her down the stairs.

Downstairs, Lucian was plotting with Estelle on how to make Mommy and Daddy get back together.

The two little ones parted in shock at the sound of footsteps and sat down on the sofa as if they had not been doing anything.

Rosalie looked at them with amusement. "What secrets were you guys whispering about?"

Lucian was calm. "I told Estie that Nox is good at using the computer."

Estelle nodded. "Well, Estie is good at that too!"

Rosalie did not think much of it. She just looked at Estelle in surprise.

Estelle was so innocent and lovely that it was impossible to imagine her being good at such a thing.

However, it was not surprising to think of Estelle as a child with a high IQ.

"Auntie, what did you ask Nox to help you with? I can try if he couldn't help you with it."

Estelle volunteered.

Rosalie subconsciously looked at Nox, who was standing beside her. Then, she looked at the little ones as she smiled.

"Nothing. Auntie doesn't know much about computer operations, so I needed Nox's help to teach me how to use one."

Nox nodded.

Estelle was naive and did not think much of the excuse.

However, Lucian had guessed Rosalie's motive for speaking personally to Nox. He was worried about how Nox might have dealt with it.

Moreover, Nox's expression looked strange.

'Did Nox spill the beans?'

Lucian instinctively felt nervous.

When Nox sat down beside him, Lucian got the chance to ask him. He was relieved to learn that Nox did not accidentally say anything.