

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 598

In order to ease his relationship with Rosalie, Byron wasted so much time thinking about it during this period of time.

Especially with Estie behind him who kept on nagging at him and hounding him with questions, he could only keep trying to find a way.

However, despite what he had done, their relationship had not progressed at all.

Byron was more or less already a little tired.

Andrius did not know if his solution was feasible, but he did not want to see the two of them keep being at a standstill like this. He gritted his teeth and suggested, "Just start your pursuit. I feel tired just looking at the two of you trying to guess each other's minds like this. It'll be better if one of you directly explain yourselves."

Byron frowned and looked at him, motioning him to continue.

Although he was unwilling to admit it, what Andrius said was indeed the core issue between him and Rosalie now.

He did not know what the woman was thinking, and the woman was always unwilling to trust his intentions.

"You've already done so much for her. I reckon that one sentence won't make much of a difference now."

Seeing Byron listening to him so seriously, Andrius continued even more vigorously. "If possible, you can ask her directly if she'd like to come back to you. Also, apologize to her properly."

Byron had never pursued anyone before. He understood the purpose of doing this when he heard it, but he could not think of a suitable way.

He could not possibly just appear in front of that woman suddenly and say these to her abruptly.

Considering the woman's character, she would probably feel that he was behaving inexplicably and distance herself from him even more.

Thinking of this, Byron asked patiently, "what exactly do I need to do?"

Andrius did not expect him to ask such a stupid question.

He never even dreamed that there would be such a day when his good friend would need him to teach him how to court women.

Considering Byron's identity, it was incredible enough that he needed to pursue a woman.

What was more, he asked him so seriously while wearing that astonished expression.

Byron could tell what he was thinking and kicked his calf with a frown.

Andrius snapped back to his senses. He smiled nonchalantly and continued giving him ideas. "Send flowers. No woman can refuse flowers as far as I know! You can also attach a small card when you send her flowers. If you write a confession on it, you'll get twice the outcome with half the effort!"

Andrius felt guilty for a moment after he said that.

To be honest, his family status was pretty good, and he had not really courted women either.

However, he had watched TV, and every time Andrea was being courted, she would always be given flowers. Andrea would be quite happy every time.

Thinking of this, nothing should be wrong with sending flowers.

Byron did not even know anything about pursuing women, so he would just listen to Andrius.

When he heard the suggestion of sending flowers, Byron frowned and pondered for a moment before nodding in agreement. "I'll try that."

Andrius raised his glass. "I wish you all the best and that you'll be able to get back together with Dr. Jacobs smoothly. Also, congratulations in advance to Estie for being reunited with Dr.

Jacobs!"

Byron raised his glass and clinked it lightly.

They initially came out to drink, but the two of them did not drink much in the end. Andrius was so sleepy that he kept yawning in the private room.

The knot in Byron's heart had untangled, and he no longer forced Andrius to stay. The two of them left the area early and went back home.

Back in the villa, Byron took out his mobile phone and called Luther.

Luther had just fallen asleep when he suddenly received a call from his master. He quickly got up and answered, "Sir, what are your instructions?"

Byron was silent for a few seconds. He rolled the words in his mouth before saying, " Help me look around for some good flower shops and send me the contact information later."

