

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 646

“I heard Rosalie mention that she wanted to discuss with Young Master Martin and Young Master Xander about the future cooperation in the evening. I didn’t expect the discussion to go on until so late.”

Byron looked at Martin and Xander on the other side, his tone sounding natural and familiar. There was still some intimacy when he called Rosalie’s name.

It sounded like Rosalie was his person, and when she came out to talk to them about work this evening, she would only go with his permission.

When his voice fell, the expressions of the people present changed.

Many people present knew that Byron Lawrence had a marriage contract and also knew that the other party was the young lady of Fuller family.

However, Byron’s current attitude made them doubt Byron’s relationship with that woman.

Thinking about Byron’s status and the woman’s beautiful face, it was not a surprise that there would be a relationship between the two.

Everyone just felt that they had swallowed a huge forbidden fruit, and each subconsciously held their breath, ready to keep silent about this secret.

Seeing the expressions on everyone’s faces, Rosalie felt anxious for a while. She wanted to defend herself, but she could not speak.

After all, in Byron’s words just now, there were really no misleading words.

He just said the words in an ambiguous tone.

If she spoke rashly, this man might catch her by the tongue.

Thinking of what might happen in the future, Rosalie bit her lower lip in frustration and simply turned her eyes away.

On the side, when Xander and Leon heard Byron’s words, their eyes changed.

However, they had to admit that Byron’s appearance at this time and what he said just now were indeed a good way to save Rosalie from this situation.

The two of them looked at each other and nodded to Byron. “The cooperation in the future is very important, and there were many people attending the banquet, so we lost track of time.”

The implication was also telling the crowd it was not just the three of them who were alone just now.

People naturally did not dare to question Byron.

Only the drunk Stacy was still shouting vaguely.

“If you were talking about work, what were you doing sitting so close? No matter how good her medical skills are, how can she be that good? What right does she have to sit with you? It’s only just because of that face of hers!”

Stacy drunkenly turned toward Rosalie and approached her with one hand pointing directly at Rosalie’s face.

Xander’s attention was on Rosalie and Byron. Although he heard her voice, he did not notice she had walked out of his side.

When Stacy appeared in his field of vision again, she had reached the position between him and Rosalie.

Xander raised his brows sharply, wanting to stop her.

However, in the current situation, it was obviously not suitable for him to take action.

Xander could only stand on the spot with a tensed expression, watching Stacy blunder on the other end.

Leon was in no position to stop or come in between them either.

On the side, those girlfriends of Stacy’s were anxious, but because they were in the presence of Byron, no one dared to step forward and pull Stacy back, so they could only watch helplessly.

“You...” Stacy stumbled to Rosalie’s position a few steps away and berated her bitterly, “You shameless wh*re! when you look like this, what medical skills could you possibly have? You only... You only rely on your face!”

Rosalie had faced many discriminations like this, but those people only showed in their eyes and no one had ever said it so bluntly or in such circumstances.

There was no evidence. Even if she wanted to defend herself, she would not be able to prove her medical skills right here and now.
