

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 663

“Andrea, do you know them?”

Eugene could not help but ask.

Hearing these words, Andrea slowly came back to her senses, frowned, and glanced at him. The disdain in her eyes was fleeting but evident. “I have bad blood with that woman.”

Eugene asked in confusion, “what did she do to you?”

Andrea curled her lips with a flash of anger, “she stole my friend’s man. I can’t stand her.”

Eugene was stunned by his goddess’ anger. He immediately stood up in a stance, wanting to help vent her anger. “I’m going to settle the score with her!”

Andrea just rolled her eyes, then quickly adjusted her expression. She lightly kicked him under the table. “Sit down. Don’t be so impulsive. That’d be so embarrassing!”

She kicked very lightly. Eugene only thought that the goddess was flirting with him, so he sat back obediently and asked her, “Then what are you going to do? I’ll listen to you!”

Andrea smiled. “We’ll follow them after a while. Let’s see what they’re going to do after.”

Eugene agreed without hesitation.

On the other hand, Rosalie and the others were unaware of their existence.

After they had their lunch, it was still a while before the concert started. Rosalie wanted to take the kids to find a place to hang out for a while, but Byron suggested taking them to the mall.

Hearing this, Rosalie could not help but hesitate. “Is there anything you need to buy?”

In her opinion, going shopping together was something a family did.

Especially with three kids.

Outsiders would definitely be misunderstood.

Byron took a glance at Little Estie sitting next to Rosalie, his face unchanging. “Estie hasn’t bought new clothes for a long time, and I don’t know what the little girl will like. We happen to have time today. Please help give some suggestions, Miss Jacobs.”

Hearing what her father said, the little girl immediately nodded along and looked at Rosalie expectantly.

Estie’s clothes were always bought with Grandma’s help. The little one also really wanted to wear clothes selected by Auntie.

Facing the little girl’s pitiful gaze, Rosalie could not help but nod and agree.

Hence, the group left the restaurant and went straight to the mall next door.

On the other side, Andrea had not even eaten a few bites of the meal in front of her. When she saw the group of five leave, she immediately got up and wanted to follow.

“Andrea, we haven’t finished yet...” Eugene called her, his heart aching as he looked at the table full of food.

A trace of impatience flashed across Andrea’s eyes, and she turned her head angrily. “Gosh, they’re leaving! If you want to eat, let’s come again next time!”

Seeing this, Eugene felt sorry for the food, but he still obeyed the wishes of his goddess and followed her out.

The two followed them all the way from a distance. As they watched the group enter the mall and go straight to the children’s section, Andrea stopped reluctantly and pulled Eugene to the women’s clothing section.

The two adults entering the children’s section would seem too abrupt. They would easily be discovered by them.

“Hello, Miss. What type of clothes do you like?” A shop assistant soon walked up to them.

Andrea wanted to find out more about Rosalie and others. When she heard this, she just glanced at the store, picked up a few expensive pieces, stated her size, and asked the shop assistant to wrap them up.

On the side, Eugene watched her splurge like this in pain, but he really liked her face. If he wanted to break into the rich circle through her, he had to endure the pain. Hence, he followed the shop assistant and swiped his card.
