

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 691

Hearing the child's reply, Byron's eyes dimmed slightly.

When it was about treating a sick child, it could be either Xander Lancer or Leon Martin.

"Do you remember what that uncle looked like?" Byron asked the kids with a tinge of hope.

As he asked this, the two brothers looked at each other. Nox kept quiet conscientiously, deciding to let his older brother answer.

Lucian replied earnestly, "We only know that the uncle was quite handsome. He also has a good relationship with Mommy."

The little one just wanted to discreetly warn his Daddy that Mommy was very popular. Hopefully, this would get him to speed up his courting of Mommy.

He did not realize that his Daddy and Mommy had some misunderstanding due to two other uncles.

Hearing what the boy said, Byron's speculation about Rosalie's relationship with the two men became more intense.

He had intended to ask further, but upon seeing the clueless looks on the two brothers, Byron frowned and gave up. He asked instead, "How will you two be going to school? Do you need me to send you both there?"

The little ones shook their heads. "Mommy said that she has applied for time off from school."

Upon hearing this, Byron looked at Estie standing beside him.

The little girl was upset upon hearing that Auntie Rosalie had left with another uncle, she pouted and started to sulk at her Daddy.

She had already said she wanted to visit Auntie Rosalie early in the morning, yet her daddy did not hurry, resulting in them being one step too late. Auntie Rosalie had left with another person!

Given Daddy's nature, the little girl even doubted if he could manage to woo Auntie Rosalie and make her become her mommy.

Noticing that the little girl was fuming, Byron pinched the center of his eyebrows uneasily. He asked the two boys, "How about we let Estie stay with you boys? I need to go to work and won't be sending her to her kindergarten. Would you be able to take care of yourselves?"

Hearing that Estie was staying behind, the two boys agreed without hesitation. "Sure, we'll take good care of her!"

Byron lowered his eyes to glance at Estie.

Even though the little one was still angry, a slight smile appeared on her little face when she heard that she could stay with the two boys.

Seeing this, Byron heaved a sigh of relief.

Knowing her daughter's temper, he understood that sending her to the kindergarten now would just make her angry the whole day. She would be angry with him until she got to see Rosalie.

Hence, he might as well leave her with the two boys, with the boys' company, she would feel a bit better.

After leaving Estie with the two boys, Byron bade them farewell and got into his car.

Before leaving, he was still worried about the kids, so he gave Luther a call. Then, he instructed Luther to have someone keep a lookout at the door and ensure the kids' safety.

On the other end of the call, Luther quickly agreed.

After hanging up, Byron subconsciously pulled up Rosalie's number. He was undecided on whether to give her a call.

At the very least, he wanted to find out who the woman was with.

As soon as this thought came up, he quickly suppressed it.

After all, the woman had always been very particular about her privacy. As for the relationship between her and the two men, she had explained it to him multiple times.

It was just that he did not want to believe it.

Due to his doubts, the woman had gotten angry with him several times.

If he were to call specifically to ask again, the woman's attitude toward him might return to square one after finally getting better.

Thinking this, Byron frowned a little irritably and put his phone away in the end.
