

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 707

Lucian carefully handed the flower to him. "Mommy's bunch of flowers have a lot of lilies, so I secretly took one out."

Hearing what the little boy said, Byron's eyebrows twitched as he finally understood what the boy meant.

The bunch of flowers Rosalie brought back was clearly given by others to thank her.

It was he who misunderstood her again.

No wonder the woman was so angry.

Realizing this, Byron's face suddenly softened. He glanced at the woman who was still busy in the kitchen and looked back to take the lily from Lucian. "Forgive me. I was too anxious. We'll stay for dinner."

After speaking, Byron put Estie down from his arms.

As soon as the little girl landed, she glared at her father angrily and went straight to the kitchen to find Rosalie.

In the living room, Byron held the lily that Lucian had pulled from Rosalie's bouquet. With a frown, he stared at the little guys.

Seeing Daddy's annoyance, the two little guys glanced at each other secretly, their eyes full of distress.

'Although Daddy and Mommy often argue, Mommy is clearly furious this time, what can we do to make the two adults reconcile

>

At the same time, in the kitchen, Little Estie wrapped herself around Rosalie's legs.

Rosalie was still angry when she suddenly saw the little one running in with a look of grievance, she was a little puzzled, "what happened, Estie? Did the brothers bully you?"

Rosalie glanced outside the door and thought, 'That shouldn't be right. The two boys have always adored me, so how could they bully me?'

Apart from the two little guys, the only possibility was that man.

The next second, Estie's words also confirmed her conjecture.

"Daddy, bad Daddy!" Little Estie angrily complained about her daddy to Auntie.

Hearing this, Rosalie was not surprised, but she was still curious about what happened that made the little girl so angry, “why did Daddy bully Estie?”

The little girl puffed out her cheeks and complained angrily to Rosalie, “Daddy wanted to bring Estie home and didn’t let me have dinner with Auntie!”

Rosalie’s eyes flashed with surprise.

‘Just now, Byron really wanted to take Estie away.’

However, she had objected.

‘Unexpectedly, the man did it anyway.’

‘I don’t know how the little one got in.’

Thinking of this, Rosalie subconsciously looked up at the door, afraid that Byron would suddenly come in.

when she looked up, she saw two little boys standing at the door of the kitchen.

Nox smiled brightly. “Mommy! Let’s play games together!”

Hearing this, Rosalie felt puzzled for a while.

Lucian, who was at the side, also pursed his lips and nodded earnestly. “Let’s play games!”

Rosalie was even more confused when she saw that the always prudent older boy had offered to play games.

Moreover, the little boy’s face was flushed. She did not know what was wrong.

Little Estie snuggled into Auntie’s arms and turned her head to look at the two brothers curiously.

‘I was almost taken away by my father just now, and the brothers were very anxious. I’m still angry now, but the brothers want to play games.’

‘This is weird.’

Just when the little girl was puzzled, Nox secretly blinked at Little Estie, motioning her to look at Byron at the door.

The little girl understood his hint and glanced at her father reluctantly.

