

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 721

Stacy also saw the news.

When she saw Rosalie's name on the cooperation list, Stacy's face became extremely ugly.

Not only was this woman really cooperating with Xander, but her name was even placed so high.

This kept Stacy thinking about the distance between Rosalie and Xander that night.

'What right does she have?!'

Staring at Rosalie's name on the screen for a long time, a shadow flashed across Stacy's eyes.

She wanted everyone to see the true colors of that b*tch!

'She's nothing but a woman who relies solely on her face. I don't know what drug she gave Xander, but he actually gave her a ranking on the list.

'That woman thinks she's all that now!

'Let's wait until I expose her true colors, then I'll see how she'll survive in the domestic medical field in the future!

'At that time, even if Xander likes that face of hers, he'll definitely not be able to be with that woman!'

Thinking of the scene where Rosalie was spurned by the crowd, Stacy felt relieved for a while.

With a plan in mind, Stacy made a few calls with a gloomy face.

At noon, Hector sat at the dining table, looking at Stacy's empty seat with an ugly face.

He had already begged despite his old age just to have a chance to apologize in order to win Byron's understanding.

He did not expect that after all that he had done, all was lost in the hands of his daughter.

No matter how hard he tried, if Stacy insisted on not apologizing, there was nothing he could do!

Right now, his daughter was still late to come down for lunch, which meant she insisted on not apologizing.

Just when Hector felt a headache, there was the sound of footsteps upstairs. Then, Stacy appeared at the corner of the stairs.

Seeing her come downstairs, Hector secretly breathed a sigh of relief. His tone softened. "What do you think about what I told you?"

Hearing this, Stacy's face sank for a moment. After that, she regained her composure and smiled slyly. "Since this is what you want, even if I'm unwilling, I can only obey. It's better to get it over and done with than to drag this on. Please help me ask if Miss Jacobs has time tonight."

Hector breathed a sigh of relief and agreed. "Okay, I'll ask on your behalf later."

In Hector's opinion, to be able to apologize to Rosalie as soon as possible and get her forgiveness would be the best.

In this way, Byron would surely spare the Hudson family.

After lunch, Hector sent a message to Xander in front of his daughter, asking if he and Rosalie had time tonight.

On the other side, Xander saw Hector's message, and there was a faint trace of unease in his heart.

However, he did not think too much about Stacy. He just felt that Stacy would just be sloppy like last time. Since he was there, he could still control the situation.

Thinking of this, Xander helped send the message to Rosalie and asked for her time.

Rosalie quickly gave a positive answer.

After receiving the news, Xander replied to Hector immediately and determined the time and place.

Seeing that the time and place were determined, Stacy's eyes flashed coldly.

"Remember to behave yourself later. We can't afford to offend Miss Jacobs." Hector was afraid that his daughter would do something wrong again, so he insisted bitterly.

On the contrary, after hearing her father's words, Stacy felt more and more disdain for Rosalie. She was even more determined to ruin Rosalie's reputation now!

In the evening, Stacy went out early. 1

Hector thought she was really ready to apologize to Rosalie and did not think much about it. He just watched her get in the car and leave.
