

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 727

After watching Mary take the boys away, Rosalie went upstairs into the study. She switched on her phone and checked the news from that morning.

The moment she looked up the news on social media, she saw a series of popular search entries within the same city—[Beautiful Doctor Suspected of Being A High Ranking officer of shady Business], [Xander of The Lancer Family Out On A Date With A Beautiful Doctor Late At Night], [Lancer Family Young Master's Love Exposure]...

Almost all of them had something to do with her relationship with Xander or were questions about the reason she was able to work together with the Lancer family.

Rosalie felt her head ache just seeing those entries.

She clicked into one of them casually and took a look. The top entry had been viewed nearly one million times.

[The young master of the Lancer family went out on a late-night date with the beautiful doctor who's working together with the family on a new project. Their suspected relationship has been exposed.]

It was followed by a few blurry photos below.

One was of Rosalie and Xander sitting face-to-face in the restaurant. There were some dishes in front of them, and they seemed to be chatting happily.

The second photo had the two of them standing on the stairs at the entrance of a restaurant. Xander had turned around and was holding Rosalie's hand. They looked very intimate.

The last photo was of Xander sending Rosalie home and Rosalie getting out of his car.

Rosalie's emotions were heavy when she saw these few photos.

They had been secretly photographed the entire night but neither she nor Xander noticed it...

The netizens had plenty to say.

[Is this the female doctor named Jacobs on the list? Didn't I say that she was unreliable? What medical skills could she have at such a young age?]

[Looks like she really climbed her way up with her face! But speaking of which, this Doctor Jacobs is really beautiful. Even I'd be willing to give her this position!]

[I ship them!]

|| ||

Rosalie felt helpless when she read the first comment about her.

Although she had long known that she would be questioned by the public after the list was announced, she never thought it would be this way.

The public's doubts about her had been pushed to the top because of this news.

Just as she was scrolling through social media, Xander's call popped in.

For a few seconds, Rosalie was stunned before she answered the call.

"I apologize. I just saw the news on the internet." On the other end, Xander's voice was wholly apologetic. "Don't worry, I'll deal with this false news as soon as possible and give you an explanation!"

Hearing this, Rosalie frowned slightly. There was still some concern in her gaze, but she just said, "Thankyou."

The two were silent for a moment before Xander spoke again, "I'll go back to the Hudsons to get an explanation from them about what happened last night. Stacy was behaving so abnormally last night. She definitely has something to do with this."

Rosalie did not expect him to point it out so directly. After a few seconds of stunned silence, she opened her mouth to stop him. "Forget it, we don't have any evidence. Our top priority is to give an explanation to the public's opinion on the internet."

Although she had the same suspicion, they had no evidence now. Even if Stacy did it, she might not admit to it.

They would have no way of dealing with her when the time came either.

Moreover, public opinion had already spread. Even if she found the culprit, she could only get an apology from them and it would not help resolve the public's opinion.

Xander was also acting out of impulsivity on the other end. After Rosalie stopped him, he calmed down somewhat and pondered this concern. He replied solemnly, "You're right, I was impulsive. I will think of a way to suppress public opinion first."

Rosalie agreed.

He hung up the call immediately after that.

Looking at the darkened mobile phone screen, Rosalie took a deep breath.

Xander had already started to act, so she could no longer sit still.

