

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 735

Outside the door, Hector was furious and smacked the door hard multiple times.

Stacy glanced at the door with an ugly expression before getting up to open the door.

She saw her father's angry face the moment she opened the door.

"What did you do!" Hector looked at his daughter angrily.

Stacy was stunned for a moment.

Although Hector had lost his temper at her before, this was the first time she saw her father get so angry.

It sounded like it was because of that Jacobs woman again.

Realizing this, Stacy still looked at her father bravely although she was frightened. "What did I do wrong? I just want everyone to take a good look at her!"

Hector frowned sharply, "what did you say?"

Stacy said stubbornly, "I really don't know what's so good about that woman that has everyone looking at her. Even the Quirkes came forward to speak out for her. I don't believe she actually cured Old Master Quirke!"

Hector was confused at what she was saying and felt deep down that something was slightly off.

It felt like his daughter had done something extraordinary without him knowing.

Thinking of President Lawrence's actions tonight, Hector's heart instantly sank rock bottom. He strode into Stacy's bedroom and saw the phone that was still turned on at a glance.

He picked it up and looked at it, only to see that there were overwhelming public opinions about Rosalie on the internet.

And the incident started with the three photos from last night.

Hector did not even need to ask to know that this was his own daughter's handiwork.

"Fool!" Hector was furious and the phone in his hand was crushed!

Stacy was startled. She turned around and looked at her father incomprehensibly, "Have you gone mad! Why are you so mad!"

The moment she said that, she was slapped hard across the face. Stacy's voice cut off abruptly.

After a long while, Stacy covered her face where she was beaten, and looked at her father in a daze.

“Do you know who backs Rosalie!” Hector’s face was filled with anger. “Because of your provoking her, our family was suppressed by the Lawrences the very next day! Why did you think I wanted you to apologize to her? Look how golly great things are now, since you’ve done such a thing, do you think the Lawrences will let us go!”

Hearing her father’s words, Stacy still did not react and just murmured, “That’s impossible... I know Byron’s fiancée, why would he stand up for that Jacobs woman?”

Seeing that the situation had developed to this, Hector could only hold onto what bit of luck and say, “You better apologize to Rosalie now! Apologize to her publicly over the internet! If public opinion can be suppressed, maybe there is room for recovery! “

No matter how reluctant Stacy was, she had to bow her head in the face of pressure from the Lawrences.

In just a few minutes, she took out another mobile phone and posted an apology statement on social media, admitting that out of jealousy, she framed the relationship between Rosalie and Xander. It was followed by a bunch of apologies.

Just looking at the words, it could be regarded as sincere.

However, not long after it was sent out, it was still overwhelmed by public opinion on the internet. It only caused a trivial ripple.

Although there were some people who believed Rosalie, the doubts on the internet still shocked people.

Looking at the increasing public opinion on the internet, Stacy and Hector’s faces gradually turned pale.

Apparently, things have gotten to the point where they could no longer control it...

At this rate, the Hudsons would not have any room for a turnaround.

The panic in Stacy’s eyes gradually turned into hatred.

It was all because of that Jacobs woman. She could forget her seducing Xander but that she would not even spare Byron Lawrence who already had a fiancée!

If it were not for her, the Hudsons would not have fallen to this point!
