

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 842

The other end of the phone was pin drop silent, even the sound of Byron's breathing could be clearly heard.

"Byron?" Andrius did not hear his buddy's reply for a long time, so he urged inexplicably, and felt a little nervous in his heart, and thought that his actions displeased Byron.

After waiting for a while, the other end responded with a deep voice. "I saw the public opinion on the Internet, you did it, right?"

The emotion in Byron's voice was vague and unclear.

Andrius frowned and thought for a few seconds before he admitted frankly. "This is the easiest and most convenient way I can think of, as long as Heronial Corporation's reputation is ruined, they may have to come crawling back for US to acquire them."

These words were contrary to Andrius' usual carefree and modest image, but not surprising.

The Quirke family has been able to get to this day, due to Andrius' great efforts, so that a medical family like theirs can gain a firm foothold in the business world of Coast City. Apart from the Lancer family, the Quirke family was the only one.

As a successful businessman, sometimes, despicable tactics were necessary.

Hearing his acknowledgment, Byron frowned slightly, a strange feeling crossed his heart, and he could not help thinking of Rosalie.

'Although I wanted to teach the woman a lesson.'

'But right now, the fire is so big that it may even burn the project that she took so much effort to participate in.' This made Byron a little hesitant in his heart.

He still could not be ruthless toward that woman.

Andrius gradually became uneasy. "Do you think that my methods are a bit shameful?"

After all, he can be considered representing the business for the Lawrence Corporation now, and that Heronial Corporation will cling to them in the future.

His unprofessional methods, for Lawrence Corporation, were indeed not acceptable.

Andrius flashed a trace of regret upon this realization. "If you think it's inappropriate, I'll tell them to withdraw the public opinion now. I promise that all the black materials on the Internet will disappear!"

Byron came to his senses, pressed his eyebrows with a headache and pondered for a moment. In the end, he decided to be ruthless. "No need, you did a good job."

Andrius's face was full of surprise at his reply. "Then you..... "

'If you really think I did a good job, why the pause? What were you thinking about for a while?'

Andrius frowned and thought for a few seconds, then made a guess. "Or, is it because of Dr. Jacobs?"

Andrius could only think of Rosalie who could make his buddy suddenly change his mind. 1

Byron did not seem to have heard the question, and continued. "The business world is like this. Since Heronial Corporation broke the agreement first, they should be taught a lesson."

After that, Byron's eyes darkened.

His words were not only about Heronial Corporation, but also to convince himself that since the woman does not know how to keep a distance from other men, he would remind her!

Although Byron did not say it, Andrius still guessed what he was thinking, and knew that his buddy refused to say more, so he avoided the topic. "That's good, I thought you couldn't accept this method."

Byron pulled his lower lip indifferently. "It's just a strategy. I've said it a long time ago, as long as you can acquire the Heronial Corporation, you can do whatever you want."

In fact, he had even used tricks that were dirtier than this before. This was nothing.

Hearing what he said, Andrius finally felt relieved.

