

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 887

The little ones were distressed as they thought about Estelle crying.

“Daddy won’t let US visit her,” Nox complained in his cute voice.

Lucian retorted, “He’s not stopping us from visiting Estie.”

Nox looked at his brother in a puzzle.

Lucian looked in the direction of the kitchen and said, “Daddy doesn’t want Mommy to visit Estie.”

Nox was startled for a few seconds before he understood what Lucian was saying. Then, he put on a long face.

He had no idea what had happened between Mommy and Daddy.

Nox even wondered why their daddy was so mad because of what happened the day before.

Even Estelle had forgiven their mommy.

Rosalie was also absent-minded in the kitchen.

In the first call from Byron, Rosalie heard Estelle’s cry.

The little girl was crying so loudly.

She even heard the little one calling out to her.

However...

Rosalie regretted thinking about the choice had made.

If she knew that it was her only chance to meet Estelle and Byron would refuse to let her meet Estelle from then on, Rosalie would not have hesitated to meet Estelle.

The little one was more important than those medicines.

“Mommy, what’s that smell?”

Lucian and Nox smelled something weird from the kitchen and approached Rosalie, confused.

The smell seemed to be coming out of the pan.

The little ones tiptoed and tried to look inside the pan, but they were not tall enough to see.

RoOsalie snapped out of her deep thought and looked at the food in the pan.

All she saw was a burned dish. It was charred, and the burned smell was obvious.

She was so preoccupied with the thought of Estelle's condition that she had forgotten that she was cooking something in the pan.

"I'm sorry..."

Rosalie quickly turned off the fire and looked at the little ones apologetically. "I was distracted by something and burned the dish. We'll eat out today."

Then, Rosalie turned around and took off her apron.

Rosalie took the little ones to the nearest restaurant, where they had their meal.

They were worried about Estelle and did not have much appetite. As a result, they had a simple meal and headed home after that.

"Mommy, are you tired?"

Looking at their absent-minded mommy, the little ones suggested, "Why don't you go upstairs and rest for a while?"

Rosalie frowned and looked at the little ones with concern.

The little ones smiled sweetly at her. "We'll take care of ourselves!"

Since the little ones said so, Rosalie rubbed her forehead and agreed. "Go upstairs and rest for a while. Stay in the house and don't wander anywhere."

She did not have the energy to take care of the little ones at the moment.

The little ones agreed obediently.

Rosalie headed upstairs and shut herself in her bedroom.

Rosalie's brain was in a mess, and she did not feel sleepy. She sat by the bed in a daze. After a long time, she got up and went to study.

She wanted to immerse herself in her work. As long as she got busy, she might calm down and her mind would be clear again.

Downstairs, the boys waited a long time. When they heard no sound from upstairs, they whispered again.

"Lucian, let's go to Daddy's place!"

Nox's eyes lit up, and he sounded serious.

Mommy had burned the food when she was cooking lunch. Nox knew she was worried sick about Estelle.

Daddy did not want their mommy to visit Estelle, but he did not say they could not.

Nox thought they could just tell their mommy about Estelle's condition after they visited her.

