

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 901

Rosalie's brows wrinkled into a frown; she did not know how to refute.

Estie, who stood in front of her saw her rejection, and did not answer Daddy's words for so long, the expression on her face became more and more aggrieved.

"Auntie...Auntie is mad at Daddy?"

The little girl carefully tugged at Rosalie's cuff.

Hearing this, Rosalie suddenly came back to her senses. She looked at the little one in front of her with mixed feelings.

Estie sniffed and felt a lot of grievances in her heart.

Although she did not understand what Daddy said about the Heronial Corporation, she could hear that the two adults were arguing again.

'Daddy finally forgave auntie, and now auntie is angry with daddy again...'

Thinking of this, the little girl felt wronged again, and looked at her daddy angrily.

Byron met the little girl's gaze, and the displeasure on his face subsided, but he did not speak again.

Rosalie was silent for a while, and then patted the little girl's head soothingly. "Auntie isn't angry, I just don't want to trouble Grandma Zora."

Mrs. Zora quickly smiled and said, "It's just two more dishes, no trouble at all. I'll prepare them right now."

Rosalie choked slightly, she did not intend to agree, she just wanted to comfort Estie.

Unexpectedly, before she could speak, Lucian and Nox had already spoken.

"It's been a long time since we had Grandma Zora's cooking. We want to eat the meatballs made by Grandma Zora!"

Mrs. Zora agreed with a smile.

The two little boys have already agreed to stay for dinner, and Mrs. Zora has already gone downstairs to prepare dinner.

Rosalie's refusal could not be said after all, so she just helplessly followed the kids' wishes.

From beginning to end, Byron did not utter a word.

But this was his home.

Rosalie hesitated for a long time, in the end, she got up and said to the man, "Thanks, President Lawrence."

Byron gave her a deep look and entered the study room without saying a word.

There was still some time before dinner, and Rosalie did not know what to do, so she just hung out and spent time with the kids in the room for a while.

It was not until Mrs. Zora went upstairs to call them that Rosalie took the kids downstairs.

'I thought Byron's attitude just now was that he would not eat with US.'

Unexpectedly, right after they took their seats, the man came downstairs and took a seat opposite Rosalie.

"Auntie, the grilled fish made by Grandma Zora is yummy!"

Estie gave Rosalie a slice of fish fillet and called back the woman's attention.

Rosalie smiled and thanked the little girl. "Thank you Estie."

The little girl smiled sweetly, and then she served some for her Daddy too.

Byron nodded slightly and said nothing.

Lucian and Nox followed little sister's example, served food to their mother, and timidly glanced at Byron on the side.

Byron understood the boys' intentions, and subconsciously glanced at the woman opposite him, and nudged his lower lip at the little boys, which signified his permission.

The next second, the two little boys placed slices of fish on his plate, one after another.

Byron gladly accepted it.

Rosalie looked at her two little boys, and the emotions in her eyes became more and more complicated.

Before entering the manor just now, Mary's words rang in her ears.

'These two little ones, have they found out the relationship between them and Byron?'

However, if this was really the case, their attitude towards their biological father should not be like this.

'I remember before, whenever these two little guys mentioned their biological father, they have always resisted.'

'Unlike how they are treating Byron now.'

As she thought about this, Rosalie then felt that she was thinking too much, so she pushed aside the distracting thoughts, lowered her eyes, and ate.
