

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 916

Andrius cleared his throat when he saw that Byron was not responding.

"I heard a fire broke out in Dr. Jacobs' research institute two days ago."

Byron's brows furrowed.

Noticing Byron's reaction, Andrius was finally satisfied. "Oh? You didn't know?"

Byron shook his head with a gloomy expression.

He had not seen Rosalie after the kiss last night.

As for what was going on around her, he knew nothing about it.

Estelle would get news from the little ones about Rosalie every day at school and tell him about it.

However, Rosalie would certainly keep such dangerous news from her kids.

Looking at the gloomy look on Byron's face, Andrius remained silent and waited for Byron to ask him about it.

"What about the fire? Is she hurt?"

Byron could not stop himself from asking.

Andrius lifted his eyebrows and asked, 'Why don't you go see for yourself if she's injured?'

As he spoke, he saw Byron's face sink again.

Andrius was puzzled.

'What does that mean? Did they fight again?'

If he remembered correctly, Byron had asked him how to be romantic a while ago.

He also knew Byron was targeting Heronial Corporation because of Rosalie.

'Why did his attitude change suddenly?' Andrius thought.

"Ahem..." Andrius carefully cleared his throat. "Dr. Jacobs and you..."

A cold voice interrupted him before he could ask. "Nothing happened."

Andrius choked on his voice and coughed. Then, he looked at Byron speechlessly.

He had not asked anything, yet his friend was eager to deny it.

Andrius would never believe that nothing had happened.

Then, Andrius approached Byron. "Tell me, did you quarrel with Dr. Jacobs again?"

Byron's gaze turned gloomy.

He was more annoyed by Rosalie than he was offended.

Andrius knew his best friend's temper and sighed helplessly. "How often have I told you that you must coax someone like Dr. Jacobs? After all, you're the one who should apologize."

Byron's forehead creased again.

However, the displeasure in him eased.

Andrius continued to encourage Byron. "If you've quarreled, this is the right opportunity."

Byron lifted his eyebrow curiously. "What do you mean?"

"I don't know if Dr. Jacobs was hurt, but I know that the fire at her research institute burned the medicinal materials they took from Heronial Corporation."

Andrius took his time and explained, "This batch of medicinal materials is very rare. Dr. Jacobs has to find a way to replace them. However, now that Heronial Corporation is in our hands, those medicinal materials are also ours."

What Andrius meant was they had the resources Rosalie needed most now.

Byron was immersed in his deep thoughts.

Andrius was not happy with Byron's reaction. He patted Byron's shoulder and said, "Don't you want to win Dr. Jacobs's heart? This is a great opportunity." 1

Any woman would be attracted to the man who saved her from a helpless situation, like saving a damsel in distress.

Not to mention, Byron had made so many mistakes before this.

No matter what, it could at least resolve their current misunderstanding.

