

My Ex-Wife and Kids Came In Like A Wrecking Ball Chapter 973

Grandma was just a polite term that the little ones chose to use.

Unexpectedly, Melody scolded them for it instantly.

“You are not a part of the Lawrence family. Don’t call me grandma! Ask your mother to get a grandma if you want one so much!”

With that, Melody wanted to walk around the little ones and leave.

She suddenly snapped at the little ones, denying their relationship outright.

For a moment, the little ones felt sad.

However, they snapped out of their emotion when they heard Estelle crying louder. They stood before Melody with their teeth grit.

Seeing the two little ones standing before her stubbornly, Melody frowned impatiently.

“We don’t call you grandma anymore, but Estie doesn’t want to go with you. You can’t force her like that!”

The two little ones put on a firm expression as they continued. ‘You know Estie’s condition. She can’t cry all the time.’

Melody retorted, ‘You’d better take care of yourself first! I will take care of my granddaughter!’

Then she turned and looked at Rosalie. ‘Watch your sons, and don’t let them get in the way!’

It touched Rosalie to see her sons trying to fight for Estelle.

She was also naturally sad to see Estelle crying.

However, she could say nothing because Melody kept repeating Estelle was a part of the Lawrence family.

Since her sons had already stood up for Estelle, she should do something, especially when Melody treated her sons like that.

Rosalie wondered how the little ones would feel if they knew this was their grandma denying them over and over again.

She felt injustice for the little ones when she put herself in their shoes.

“Lucian and Nox might not be a part of the Lawrence family, but their care for Estie exceeds you!”

She protected the little ones behind her and said, “If you care about Estie, have you thought about the consequences of her crying?”

Melody did not know what to say.

After a long silence, she said impatiently, "I will take care of my granddaughter. You don't have to worry!"

If it had not been for Rosalie and the little boys, Estelle would not have been crying.

Thinking of this, Melody looked at the woman in front of her in displeased." As long as you stay away from Estie, she will be fine!"

"Auntie..."

Estelle was in Melody's arms, crying out of breath.

Rosalie was distressed and wanted to comfort the little girl in her arms.

However, she could not do it in a situation like that.

Melody glanced at the little boys behind Rosalie and said coldly, "Miss Jacobs, you are a mother of two kids, and Byron has Estie. He will marry Wendy in the future. Please pay attention to your distance."

Rosalie and the little ones were startled.

Byron had promised them he would win Rosalie's heart and settle his matter with Wendy.

After that, they never asked him again how he had dealt with the engagement.

However, they did not expect to hear something like that from Melody.

Melody had mentioned the matter they had almost forgotten.

For a moment, Rosalie and the boy were in shock.

Melody glanced at them coldly. Then, she carried Estelle as she strode to her car.

The car had muffled Estelle's whimper.

When Rosalie snapped out of her shock, all she saw was Melody's car driving away.
