Billionaire Wants To Get Married Chapter 25

No one could force him?

Felton knew his father well. He was afraid it was way too difficult for his father to give up that idea.

‘Not so easy, I’m afraid.’

Vanessa opened her eyes and looked at him very seriously, ‘I will help you.’

Felton smiled and shook his head, considering she was just comforting him and did not take it to heart at all.

After all, what could she do?

She was just a student, even if she got talents in piano.

Felton reached out to stroke Vanessa’s hair, making her originally neat hair a bit like a chicken’s nest.

‘Just be focused on your study and don’t let me worry, don’t think about other things.’

Vanessa did not speak, looking sideways at the car speeding along the highway.

Her clear eyes looked out the window without a hint of mood swings inside.

When they arrived at the university, Felton walked her through the admissions process, found her dorm, and then nagged her for a while before driving back.

Vanessa walked unhurriedly to her dorm. The girls’ dorm was quite cool in the summer and not as hot as she expected.

When she reached the door of 406 on the fourth floor, she stretched out her fair hand and knocked on the door.

Three seconds later, a flip–flop–kicking sound of slappers came from inside the door, ‘Coming...’

The door was opened, revealing a fair and clean face. The girl with glasses, looked very gentle, just a little chubby, but it made her look a little cute.

The girl looked a little nervous after seeing Vanessa, ‘You, you are my new roommate, Vanessa Simmons, right?’

Vanessa, on the other way around, looked much calmer, just nodding slightly.

‘Well, hello.’

The girl hurriedly opened the door, while New Roommate enthusiastically introducing herself, ‘I’m Sarah Miller, and I am a violin major.’

Vanessa walked in and found there were two other girls in the dorm in addition to Sarah. One was sitting in front of the makeup table, busy with makeup. Her name was Yolande Allen, a good-looking girl.

Another girl was Lauretta Lopez. She stood in front of the cabinet organizing her pile of luxury bags and clothes tagged with big names, looking dazzled.

Vanessa had never been good at dealing with people, and she did not care about such kind of stuff, so she simply said hello and then went to make her bed.

However, Lauretta, who was fiddling with luxury items, and Sarah, were interested in her.

It’s just that she seemed to be reluctant to talk to others, so they were too embarrassed to keep asking questions to her.

Only Yolande didn’t talk much the whole time, focusing on her own stuff.

But nobody knew that from the time Vanessa entered the door, Yolanda had been secretly squinting at Vanessa in the mirror, and surprisingly, there was a

New Roommate slight disgust in her eyes.

Two days later, just when Felton was having a headache trying to figure out how to break the engagement, a piece of news crept onto the front page of the social newspaper that day.

Taylor Group was acquired! Who was the person behind the acquisition!

Seeing this news, Felton, who was originally listless, sat up from his chair and looked at the news in disbelief.

How was this possible? Why Taylor Group was suddenly be acquired?

Taylor Group was now in the limelight, the stocks and funds were all the way to the green. Meanwhile, its several subsidiaries were raising funds to go public, having a very promising future. Even if someone wanted to buy it, the company's president and shareholders were not stupid, and they definitely would not be willing to sell it!
