

The Yun Family's Ninth Child is an Imp! Chapter 1988

Shopkeeper Pei was now completely convinced. No wonder Miss Fang Cao said that this was a good way to make a lot of money. Every time, she would take out half of the total sales as a bonus. Therefore, the moji grocery store was guaranteed to make a profit! Moreover, there were also people who did not come to redeem the prizes. That was all biased!

After nearly an hour, Yun Chujie continued, "Everyone, I believe that you have all finished reading it. Some people will definitely say that this moji grocery store is really smart. This way, every time the prizes are awarded, it is guaranteed to make a profit."

"That's right, I admit this. After all, we are merchants, so of course, we have to make a profit. "However, don't forget that we also have a cost."

"The venue, the manpower, these are all predictable costs. There are also uncontrollable risks. For example, if someone tries to cause a ruckus, or if the spirit stones received are stolen, it is understandable that we have to work hard to earn some money."

"As for whether you are willing to buy it, that is up to you. The opportunity only favors those who are prepared. Otherwise, even if God wanted to give you a million, he wouldn't be able to give it to you!"

"Cut the crap. An hour later, the first phase of the Lucky Seven Star Card will be officially sold. The prize will be announced on time three days later! "Those who don't come to receive the prize will be considered to have given up automatically. Once the prize expires, there will be no waiting."

After Yun Chujiu finished speaking, she jumped off the roof and began to arrange for people to set up the sales scene.

The process was very simple. After the customer paid the money, they could receive a card with a stamp on it. The customer would choose seven numbers from one to thirty-two, and then the staff would fill in the seven numbers that the customer had chosen, one lucky seven-star card would be considered complete.

Many people did not quite accept this method and felt that it was a little unreliable. Previously, when buying groceries, even if they didn't win the lottery, they could at least get groceries! If they didn't win the lottery, wouldn't it be a waste?

"What can ten spirit stones do? As long as we buy one, we might be able to earn ten times, a hundred times, or even ten thousand times. I think it's a good deal!"

"That's right. The more people buy it, the more money we'll win. If I buy one hundred spirit stones first, I might win a grand prize!"

"That makes sense. It's actually better than the previous method. One thousand spiritual stones can buy one hundred cards. We'll win a few at least."

As soon as someone took the lead, someone followed the trend and bought a few cards. However, the number of people who bought them was still very small. It was not even one-thousandth of the original number.

Yun chujiu knew that many people still held a wait-and-see attitude. If the number of people who bought the first batch was too small, the prize money would not be much. This lucky seven-star card would probably be aborted. It seemed that they still had to find a child!

“Third brother, what do you think?” Mo Peng, who was standing behind the crowd, asked Mo Chang.

“Humph, let me say that this fragrant grass is purely idle! It would be great if they just restock honestly. They would definitely be able to earn a lot of money. If they were to create a lucky seven-star card now, the number of people who bought it would only be one-thousandth of the original number. Moreover, after the prize was announced, the number of people who would buy it might be even less. After all, who would waste ten spiritual stones for no reason?” Mo Chang curled his lips and said.

Mo Peng nodded in agreement. “I have the same opinion as you. This so-called lucky seven-star card will only sell for three episodes at most before it has to be canceled. It’s really like throwing away a watermelon to pick up a sesame seed.”

Many people had the same thoughts as them. They all felt that Yun Chujiu had really made a wrong calculation this time. She had wasted a good opportunity to make money.

Unexpectedly, the next day, dozens of people came with large amounts of money. Each of them bought at least 10,000 spiritual stones worth of Lucky Seven Star cards, and the sales rose sharply.

When the sales cut off on the third day, a total of 100,000 lucky seven star cards were sold, which meant that the prize money was actually as much as 500,000!
